Government agencies often need to acquire private property for public programs or projects. This kind of acquisition has long been recognized as a right of organized government and is known as the power of eminent domain. However, our government cannot abuse this power. The Fifth Amendment of our Constitution states that private property shall not be taken for public use, without just compensation. The Fourteenth Amendment provides comparable protection against abuse by State governments. This item ships from La Vergne, TN. Paperback.

Reviews

Extensive information for book fans. It is written in basic words and never hard to understand. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

This publication is great. It is full of wisdom and knowledge. You will not really feel monotony at any time of the time (that's what catalogs are for relating to when you ask me).
